SUMTER, SC (May 3, 2017) – A Sumter man has been arrested following an investigation launched in response to growing concerns of heroin use nationally and locally.

Terrance Deangelo Haynesworth, 35, of 106 Angle St., was arrested today without incident and charged with nine counts of distribution of heroin and nine counts of distribution within a half mile of a school.

During this undercover operation, Organized Crime and Vice Control officers were able to develop sources and make multiple purchases in the Sampson, Liberty and Purdy streets area.

An investigation is continuing.

With reports of widespread heroin abuse in other parts of the state, the Sumter Police Department has been vigilant in working within the community to counter this growing trend and respond to potential overdoses.

Last year, officers received training to administer Naloxone, which can counteract the lethal effects of an opioid drug overdose.
